This is without doubt the biggest and best event we have ever arranged, and the values are the most exceptional.

We emphasize the value that is possessed by every garment in this sale—not merely the low price for the quality of the materials represented for value means more than that to us, and to everyone who purchases with forethought and with the true meaning of economy.

Value is the most appealing point about this sale—and every garment is an exceptional value.

The quality of the materials is above the average.

The trimming is tasteful, refined, and pretty—much more so than the usual garments thus priced

The styles are new, correct for wear now and during the coming season.

The making has been done in bright, sun-lighted, fresh-air factories where the welfare of the workers is considered.

The prices are very low and the qualities very high throughout.

We invite all women to come and judge for themselves, and to come in large numbers as they do every season.
